

Glacier Mass Balance

Gletscherdienst

version-pairs-v1 synthetic corpus auditors.

The methodology follows the standard protocol of the institute and was reviewed by two independent archived with its instrument identifier so that the series can be reconstructed.

The main survey documents a peak value of 42 at the Elbingen station in 2022. Every raw value is

This report summarises the 2022 measurement programme for the glacier mass balance series.

Measurement Programme

chain.

Comparability with earlier editions is ensured by the unchanged station layout and the stable calibration series.

Follow-up measurements are scheduled for the next reporting period and will be appended to this

The review board confirmed that 14 of the monitored sites met the quality threshold during 2022.

The quality assessment compares all monitored sites against the agreed thresholds.

Quality Assessment

auditors.

methodology follows the standard protocol of the institute and was reviewed by two independent Field teams verified 14 reference points along Elbingen before the final report was signed. The Field verification completes the annual cycle and confirms the reported figures.

Field Verification